New Website Guides Visitors to American Revolution Sites in N.C.

Stories of Battles, Heroes, and Minorities Told at More than 90 Locations

Durham, N.C. (March 8, 2021)—A new website, “The American Revolution Tour of North Carolina™,” guides visitors to more than 90 locations around the state related to the Regulators or the Revolutionary War. AmRevNC.com tells the stories of protests, battles, marches, and personal heroism, including those of women and minorities.

The 250-year anniversaries of the climactic acts of the Regulators, pre-war protestors against corruption in the N.C. government, occur this spring.

“We’re glad to go online in time to help people cope with remote learning and cabin fever,” said Jim Morgan, founder of AmRevNC, LLC. “It seems like the perfect travel website for the covid era. Most of our locations are entirely outdoors and accessible to the whole family.”

The locations can be found by browsing a statewide map or county list, or following nine regional driving tours. Each location page includes map links, where to park and walk, and the stories of what happened there. Background pages summarize the history of the war, military life, slavery, and more.

“North Carolina was the center of the Revolution for six months starting in Fall 1780,” Morgan said. Among the highlights are two of the most famous campaigns of the Revolution, the Overmountain Men and the Race to the Dan; a nearly forgotten campaign against the Cherokees; and a civil war between Patriots and Loyalists that included hangings and the kidnapping of the governor.

Morgan, who has a master’s degree in journalism from the University of Missouri-Columbia, wrote the content based on extensive research and 8,116 miles of driving.
